Tindemans, who also is current chairman of the European Economic Community Ministerial Council, told reporters that his meeting with the Kuwaiu ruler Sheikh Jaber Al-Ahmad, did not touch on any fresh ideas for a Mideast settlement. U.K.planes attack Falklands airport

Saturday launched a successful two-wave arrack on the only airfield in the Argentine-held Falkland Islands, using Vulcan bombers and navy Sea Harriers, the Defense Ministry said. It said there were no losses in the raid on the airport at Port Stanley.

In a brief statement, the ministry said the first attack was launched during the night by the Vulcan bombers, part of Britain's nuclear deterrent force. It said the big Delta-winged planes were refuelled in mid-air but did not indicate whether they flew from Britain or the Atlantic island of Ascension.

Haig tells congressmen

Soviets give arms aid WASHINGTON, May I (Agencies) -

The Soviet Union is supplying Argentina with anti-suhmarine weapons and sophisticated electronic surveillance equipment via Cuba, congressional sources said Saturday citing U.S. intelligence reports. The sources said that U.S. Secretary of State Alexander Haig also told a closed-door meeting of a group of Congressmen Thursday that a Cuhan military transport plane heading loward ,Argentina with such material made a forced landing in Brazil this month. Haig told the Congressmen that Havana and Moscow had offered the Argentine government a wide range of arms in case it needed them for its confrontation with Britain over the Falkland Islands, the sources said.

Haig said the transport plane landed in Brazit wirh an engine fault. While the fault was being repaired, Brazilian security personnel and then U.S. agents examined its cargo. The plane turned out to be carrying "highly-sophisticated Soviet electronic surveillance gear, anti-suhmarine Hunter-killer gear and electronic jamming equipment," the sources quoted Haig as telling them.

After its engines were repaired, the plane continued on its flight to Argeuntina, they said. Though Haig did not say when the Cuban aircraft had landed, the sources said it musi happened between his first peace mission to Buenos Aires April 9-11 and April

The revelations followed earlier reports that the Soviet were supplying Argentina with details of the movement of the Briosh task force toward the Falklands, which they were monitoring.

Meanwhile. Argentina's stagnant economy, already staggered by spiraling inflation and burde. J by large foreign debts, by served another blow by the imposition of economic sanctions by Britain and its allies, including the United States. But some observers fear the combined effect of the U.S., British, European and Commonwealth measures against Argentina may have the effect of pushing the Argentine government close to the Soviet Union with which it has fast-growing trade relationship.

Reagan, reacting after the collapse of U.S. negotiations between Britain and Argentina, suspended new Export-Import Bank credits and guarantees to Argentina and suspended Commodity Credit Corporation guarantees.

Military cooperation between the two countries has been at a standstill since 1978 when Congress, concerned about Argentina's alleged human rights violations, cut of U.S. government arms aid.

frontations between Palesunians and tsraelis continued on May Day Saturday in the Israeli-occupied West Bank.

In Jerusalem, two Israeli civilians were slightly injured by rocks thrown by young Palestinians, while in Hebron, a headquarters of the Israeli-supported village leagues was attacked by rock-throwing demonstrators. Palestinian guards shot in the air to disperse the crowd. Israeli troops intervened with tear gas grenades.

Village league offices were also attacked in Dura and Beit Ummar. Dura resident Yussuf Kazzaz was taken to hospital in Hebron Saturday after being stoned by demonstrators who accused him of participating in the village leagues.

Arafat holds talks with Qatar ruler

BAHRAIN. May 1 (Agencies) - Palestine Liberation Organization Chairman Yasser Arafat Saturday held wide-ranging talks with the ruler uf Qatar Sheikh Khalifa Bin Hamad Al-Thani on the Middle East.

Arafat earlier arrived from the United Arab Emirates (UAE) where he had talks with President Sheikh Zayed Bin Sultan Al-Nahayan aimed at strengthening support for the Palestinians.

Diplomats in the Gulf said Arafat was seeking renewed pledges of support for the Palestinians following Israel's withdrawal from Sinai last sunday. Arafat's unannounced tour has taken him to Saudi Arabia, where he had talks with covering, he said, the latest Israeli air attacks on South Lebanon.

Meanwhile, according to a senior official, of Fateh, the largest Palestinian group, Syria

Egyptian tourists flock into Sinai

RAFAH, May I (AFP) - Egyptians from the Nile Valley are arriving in their cars by the dozens along the northern part of the Sinai peninsula, to see the land which was returned to Egypt last Sunday after 15 years of Israeli occupation.

Many of them have only distant connections with the Sinai, and most heard of it only in 1973, during the war when the Egyptian army crossed the Sucz Canal. The visits have caused enormous traffic jams at the outskirts of Rafah, which the demarcation line now cuts in half. The tourist queue for the ferries across the canal is at least as long as that formed by heavy trucks transporting all kinds of material for the reconstruction of the Sinai.

The soldier in charge of inspection at ferry -number 6 in Ismailia said he has never seen so much traffic going to the "forgotten penins-him by tsraeti authorities to free himself from the demonstrators but he caused no injuries. Tension has increased in the West Bank since Israel announced Friday its fourth dismissal of a Palestinian mayor — Wahid Hamdallah of Anabta, between Nablus and Tulkarem. The mayors of Ramallab, Nablus and El-Bireh were dismissed in March which led to uprisings by Palestinians in the West Bank. Meanwhite, the Patestine Liberation Front, one of the smallest and most radical groups in the Palestine Liberation Organization, Saturday claimed responsibility for an attack on a group of Israeli policemen. Israeli authorities said earlier in the week a 35year-old Arab, brotber of a policeman, was killed when gunmen opened fire Wednesday night on a house at Anata.

One guerrilla killed, 17 held in clash with Turkish forces

ISTANBUL, May I (Agencies) — One leftist guerrilla was killed and 17 were arrested in a clash with security forces in Istanbul Thursday night, informed sources said Satur-

Shooting broke out when police moved in on a group of leftists who were hanging booby-trapped posters on walls in the Bayrampasa district of western Istanbul, they said. Several bombs were also exploded near banks around the city center causing some damage but no injuries, the sources said. Martial law authorities refused to comment on the reports.

The sources said one of those arrested was Kemal Gence, a leading member of the extremist leftist underground group, Dev-Yol. They gave no further details.

Political violence has become scarce in Turkey since the military seized power in September 1980 and rounded up more than 30,000 people from left and right. Before the coup, upto 25 persons were killed daily in extremist violence.

Early Saturday in the eastern city of Elazig, a convicted rightist killer was banged, the 16th person to be executed since the coup, state radio reported. Cengiz Baktimur, 21, was sentenced to death for shooting dead a youth leader of the former left-of-center Republican Peoples' Party io February 1980. All but one of the 16 persons executed were convicted of involvement in political killings. The military government revived hanging after it had not been used for eight years.

Meanwhile, in Strasbourg, France, Turkey has again resisted pressure for its expulsion from the 21-nation Council of Europe after coming under attack for the human rights policies the military government has followed. European diplomats said Friday.

French, Dutch, Greek and Norwegian foreign ministers were particularly vehement during a meeting that wound up Thursday night, said the sources who declined to be identified but were familiar with what took place during the closed-door session.

The final communique issued after the one-day meeting of the ministers said only that the situation in Turkey bad been discussed. The ministers rejected a proposal by the Greek and Norwegian ministers welcoming the pledge of Turkey to return to democracy "and to respect fully all provisions of the European convention on human rights...with special emphasis on the climination of the practice of torture and inhuman treatment of prisoners."

The proposal for inclusion in the final communique also called on Turkey to abolish all laws "which unduly limit the right to free expression, the activities of political parties and trade unions and to guarantee these

Palme explains exclusion of Israel

STOCKHOLM, May 1 (AP) - Swedisb Social Democratic leader Olof Palme, trying to explain a dispute with Israeli Social Democrats on the eve of May Day, said Friday that marching with an Israeli delegation Saturday would have threatened his security.

He was clarifying why the local Social Democratic leaders dropped a long-standing invitation to an Israeli Labor Party delegation to participate in the May Day celebrations in the Swedish capital.

"We felt that it would be a major risk for me ... to march together with an Israeli delegation," the former Swedish prime minister said in a statement. He said party officials feared that the three-man Israeli delegation could have been attacked by Palestinians here in the light of unrest in the West Bank and other occupied areas.

Palme said the Israeli delegation might also have been exposed to attacks because of the Iran-Iraq conflict,

'One must remember that Israel on one band is in a deep conflict with Iran and Iraq and on the other band in a vital supplier of weapons to one part (Iran)." said Palme who is a U.N. mediator in the Gulf war.

BRITISH ATTACK

: It may not have been quite a pure coincidence that the U.S. announcement of support for Britain and sanctions against Argentina should have come at the same time that Argentina declared its acceptance of the Security Council resolutions.

Argentina must have known well in advance the content of U.S. Secretary of State Haig's statement declaring it the aggressor and affirming material and political backing for Britain in its dispute with Argentina over the Falklands. Argentine newspapers indicated prior to the announcement that Washington had notified Buenos Aires about the impending sanctions.

So it would seem that the American announcement, coupled with the Common Market sanctions, had finally forced Argentina to relent and to accept to carry out the Security Council resolutions. These call on it, among other things, to withdraw its troops from the islands and start peaceful negotiations. Argentine Foreign Minister Nicanor Costa Mendez said Friday night in the U.N. that his country was willing to implement the resolutions in their entirety which is one of the rarest acts of announced adherence to the world body since its inception.

After this act of courage, or desperation by Argentina, Britain had no justification to go and bomb Port Stanly in order to render its only airport unserviceable. This was rubbing salt into the open wound of the Argentines who had just been humiliated politically and morally by Britain's many allies. Besides, if the airport is bombed and badly cratered, the Argentines would be hard put to hasten their withdrawal as they will have to depend on ships only which will take much longer.

The Argentines have publicly declared their intention to respect the Security Council resolutions and they should have been given a fair chance to do so rather than embarrass them by attacking their positions in the isla-

It would be a grave error to provoke them sufficiently to make them change their minds about the resolutions and resolve to dig in and fight it out.

The number one target of federal agents in Dallas is a smooth-talking West German businessman, Werner Bruchbausen, charged with operating seven front companies in the U.S. whose sole purpose was to acquire Silicon Valley technology for sale to Warsaw Pact nations. A court indictment charges that a single Bruchhausen company exported $10 million worth of material over three years, using agents who talked of Western defense contracts to eager California executives. Hopes for peaceful unity between the North and South came when they exchanged secret presidential emissaries in 1972. It quiekly gave birth to fullscale political dialogue assisted by a joint detente communique to initiate unification talks, with high-level government delegations visiting the two capitals alternately.

The dialogue was coupled with talks between the two sides aimed at arranging reunion of an estimated 10 million members of Korean families divided by the border. But in mid-1973 the North abruptly

U.S. intelligence experts trace the Soviet appetite for Californian knowhow to the detente-minded Nixon years, when unprecedented access to U.S. technology was allowed. Realizing how far they lagged behind, Soviet scientists began an immense copying spree.

When Reagan took office he promised to tighten oontrols and urge the U.S. academic and scientific community to reduce Soviet access. But attempts to halt scientific exchange programs on grounds that the Soviets were stealing information bave been assailed in academia. Ignoring the role of the Palest-inian people represented by the Oil is politics throughout Africa. No president dare let the tanks run dry, but Tanzania's dilemma of dear energy have brought them to the verge of ruin, but the World Bank refuses to agree.

In its survey "Accelerated Development in Sub-Saharan Africa," the World Bank conceded that high oil prices were a factor, but was more concerned to castigate black Africa for its failure to respond to the challenge by raising exports and practising austerity. This argument has increased the belief among Socialist leaders such as Nyerere that the hard men in Washington have no real sympathy for the African dilemma. They suspect that the oil problem is a handy weapon being used to beat them into toeing the capitalist line.

While this debate goes on, the African motorist wonders where his next gallon is coming from. Even Kenya, most thrusting and affluent of the hlack states, has lately plunged into halance of payment difficulties. Businessmen say they eannot get import licenses, and are hlaming oil costs for eating into the nation's reserves.

Some are even looking askance at the worldfamous Safari Rally. As the cars roared away from Nairohi earlier this month, the rally was seen as a bad example of gasoline profligacy. Kenya, with its dedication to free enterprise, will be reluctant to bring in rationing but Tanzania has had it for more than a year.

In most African countries the reliance upon imported oil is almost total for all energy consumpnon. The luckier ones have hydroelectricity to lighten the load, Zamhia's energy consumption is 50 percent covered by power from the Kariba dam on the Zambezi.

This resource, huilt in the colonial era, is shared with Zimbabwe, which also has the benefit of the vast Wankie colliery. Mozambique is likewise able to tap the power of the Zambezi. Uganda has the Owen Falls dam on the Nile, and exports a third of the power from it to Kenya. But most countries get than nine-tenth of their energy from costly foreign

The poorest countries simply cannot pay. Living from hand to mouth, they must depend on handouts from the rich nations to get them through from one oil consignment to the next. None has yet run dry but there is speculation that it may soon happen.

One natural consequence of the oil predicament has been an urgent intensification of exploration. For more than 30 years, drilling companies have been prohing the offshore shelf around Africa, usually with disappointing results.

There are still only four oil producers south of the Sahara — Angola, Gabon, the Congo and Nigeria. Much hope and excitment have lately been generated by news from Sudan, where Chevron has made on exploitable strike. This has taken place far inland, so a new pattern of oil distribution bas been broke off all talks, accusing South Korean intelligence agents of kidnapping Seoul's leading political dissident, Kim Dae-Jung, from a Tokyo hotel several weeks before and demanding the South discontinue its anti-Communist stand.

Kim, a former presidential candidate who ran a elose race against the late President Park Chunghee in 1971, was released in Seoul a few days after his abduction by unidentified Koreans. He is now serving a 20-year sentence for sedition, including charges of fomenting the uprising at Kwangju, His name was included in a North Korean proposalearlier this year to hold a conference of 100 politicians, 50 each from the two sides of Korea, to discuss the Korean problem. No southern government representatives were named in the list.

Pyongyang has rejected Seoul's calls for talks:
between President Chun Doo-hwan and his northern opposite number Kim Il-sung and for a common-constitution pending unity. Seoul believes Kim. 70, is preparing to transfer power to his son Kim Jong-il. South Korean intelligence officials told journalists last month that they, expected a more militant northern attitude toward the South during the transfer. They based their expectation on their belief that the younger Kim, 40 has already become the de facto head of the North Korean Workers (Communist) Party and has much control over the country's military affairs.

But unlike his father, who entered North Korea as an officer with occupying Soviet forces in 1945, Kim Jong pil laeks active military experience, according to the South Korean officials. The officials said it would therefore be possible for him to increase "military provocations" against the South to help present him to the northern people as a milit-population in Pakistan had swelled to 100,000. Since then, the pace of the exodus into Pakistan from Afghanistan has increased. During the last three months of the Amin regime, some 300,000 more Afghans had crossed over to Pakistan.

But the floodgates to the flow swung even wider after the fall of Amin and the ascendaney of Babrak Karmal. From about 10,000 a month in early 1980, the flow of refugees multiplied to about 90,000 a month in the latter part of the year.

By March 1981, the total number of Afghan refugees in Pakistan had gone up to two million. By December. Pakistan's North West Frontier Province (NWFP) alone had 2.1 million refugees, including 500,000 males, 600,000 females and 100,000 child-

The refugees come from almost the entire length and breadth of Afghanistan, from places near the Pakistan-Afghan border to as far as areas straddling the Afghan-Soviet border.

The Pakistan-Afghan border, or the Durand Line, was drawn in 1885. It is dotted with passageways from Broghal in the north to Chagai in the south that makes it impossible to seal off. There are only two points on the border where passports are required. Otherwise, it is totally impossible to restrict the movement of people from either side of the border to the other.

But as the NWFP Governor, Lt. Gen. Fazle Haq had reportedly told the Soviet ambassador to Pakistan: "If you, a world power, cannot seal the border, how ean you expect a small country like Pakistan to do it?

The Durand Line is a "soft line" separating Pakistan and Afghanistan. Various tribes, other ethnic groups and families on both sides move freely about without travel formalities. Pakistanis and Afghans are linked closely by a common religious, historical and cultural heritage and linguistic affinity. So when Afghans want to seek refuge from government repressions their natural destination is Pakis-

In some instances, the heavy influx of Afg-. han refugees has distorted population patterns in Pakistan. For instance, the refugee population in some camps like Bajur has already surpassed the local population, forcing authorities to close the area to new arrivals.

There are no restrictions on the movement of refugees, no barbed wires enclose their camps. They are entitled to relief assistance both in cash and in kind provided they register themselves at places offered to them as temporary settlement areas.

Until January 1979, the relief assistance

ter. But this was reduced to 50 rupees ($5) per head since 1980 when other itmes were included in the subsidy like construction materials, blankets, clothing and food. All this amounts to an average monthly:-

consisted mainly of a monthly subsidy of 120 rupees ($12.50) per head in addition to shel-subsidy of 150 rupees ($15.50) for each refugee. On a larger scale, the subsidy for the twomillion refugees in NWFP alone totals 3.6 million rupees ($373.000) per month. Pakistan shoulders half of the cash subsidy.

There are 16 national and international voluntary agencies working in NWFP alone. They include the International Committee of the Red Cross, the Pakistan Red Crescent, Saudi Red Crescent, International Rescue Committee Union Aid, Inter-Aid Committee, Save the Children Fund of Britain, Austrian Relief Committee for Afghan Refugees, the Pakistan Medicos International, Church Ward Services, League of Red Cross Societies, Caritas Pakistan and the International Christian Aid.

Although the massive influx of refugees into Pakistan has brought about drastic demographic changes, especially in the border areas, the exiles have rarely posed any serious problem to Pakistan's law and order situat-

Disputes among the refugees are resolved by camp elders under their tribal laws. On the other hand, conflicts between Pakistanis and the refugees, which concern mainly water distribution, crops and love matters, are not allowed to get out of hand.

Camp leaders and local authorities see to it that the problem is not allowed to worsen before the proper solutions are applied.

One of the most pressing social problems, however, that confront refugees concerns marriage. Afghans rarely marry outside their own tribes. But since the Afghan resistance to their government has cost countless lives, it has become doubly difficult for women of marriageable age to find an eligible husband.

Pakistan and donor countries and organizations have catered to the health, economic and educational needs of the refugees. In NWFP, the government has set up 31 mobile and 78 stationary health units. Nine voluntary organizations operate and additional 31 mobile and 40 stationary dispensaries.

One primary school with two teachers has been set up in every Refugee Tent Village (RTV). A central mosque has also been constructed. In all, about 250 primary schools have been opened in NWFP to serve the refugees. The schools, which have a combined enrollment of 25.896 students, are manned by 739 teachers.

An unwelcome check list

By Robert Yoakum

All of the readers who are as badly organzed as I am will welcome the new book from Crown Publishers entitled Check Lists – 88 Essential Lists to Help you Organize Your Life.

Many of the lists are of no use to me: I'm not "Moving in with Someone" or "Expect-ing a Baby." Neither, fortunately, do I need "Car Accident," or "Lost Wallet," or Separation/Divorce," or "Burglary," or Serious Illness/Hospital Stay.

But as I reviewed the index I saw many lists that would be belpful. There are 19 packing check lists, for example, many of which might prevent those awful conversations that begin, "I thought you brought it! After all, you're the one who gets the bad sunburns," or "Do you mean to tell me that we've flown five thousand miles to a strange country - and you forgot to bring your

The first list that I examined item by item, though, was No. 34, and seldom have two pages of print depressed me more. No. 34 is called "Spring Chores." It stands as a symbol of my entire life, especially the part devoted to procrastination.

And how about you? We're now into

- "Remove snow tires." Sun belt readers can ignore that one, and some of the others to follow, but for many people in the Frost Belt, that muve turned out to be a big mistake. Motorists by the hundreds of thousands had just replaced their snow tires, only to find themselves spinning their wheels in the worst springtime blizzard in nemory. Not me, though. I hadn't gotten around to removing my snow tires, or even thinking about it. - "Remove weather stripping." Never got it up. "Take offstorm windows." Them either. - "Put up screens." Check. They're up.

Still up, that is. - "Take out lawn mower and garden

- "Check/repair winter damage to house/paint." I eheck that every year, and every year the damage gets worse. One of these years something will have to be done.

Maybe sell the place? "Check drains, gutters." I will when I find the ladder. How can anyone luse anything as large as a ladder? Easily. In our house, many things of all sizes disappear during the winter and most ore never seen

"Chop wood for winterstack for drying." Is that a juke? Winter is eight munths away, for heaven's sake! What I may do is bring in some of the wood I chopped last

- "Clean garage, basement, attic." Only four words, but they have the impact of a sledgehammer. Those three items appear on every list I've ever drawn up. I once wrote a column about an attempt to elean the attic - an attempt that, after many hours, left the place so little improved that a first-time visitor would have sworn that it hadn't been touched.

And I don't even want to think about the garage and basement. Cleaning our garage would involve making enough room for an automobile; in the basement, it would involve elearing a path for the plumber to reach the furnace,

- "Plan garage sales, donatiuns," That's more like it! Planning is what I'm best at. - "Plan summer vacation/send for broehures, maps, guidebooks." Great! More planning! And planning fur summer, which is the best kind! Let's cut it uff right here. OK? I've got to sit right down and write for those brochures, maps, and

Honduran hijackers free all, fly to Cuba

TEGUCIGALPA, Hooduras, May 1 (Agencies) — Four leftist gunmen Saturday freed the last hostages beld for three days here on a hijacked Honduran airliner and took off on a second airliner headed for Cuba, army officials said.

Army officials said all the freed 15 hostages were in good condition. The hijackers commandeered the Honduran Air Service plane on a domestic flight Wednesday. A Vatican official who boarded the plane several times during the negotiations said the gunmeo had set explosive charges aboard and carried pistols. At various points during the siege, they threatened to blow up the plane and to kill an American executive with the Standard Fruit and Steamship Co.

Eleven hostages including the pilot and all eight Americans had earlier escaped the airliner by leaving through an emergency door and smashed windows, relief agency officials

Indonesians vote Tuesday

JAKARTA, May 1 (AFP) — Indonesia, now experiencing a five-day "cooling off" period goes to the poll Tuesday after a fierce 45-day general election campaign marred by violence. Clashes between the army and demonstrators, most of them militants from the opposition Muslim United Development

Party (PPP) claimed 18 lives here. The ruling army-backed Golkar Party, the pro-Suharto Indooesian Democratic Party (PDI) and the PPP all staged a series of rallies across the country in the campaign, which ended Wednesday. For the government, the main objective of the election was to give the country the image of a stable and booming democracy.

Golkar — grouping the military, civil servants and notables — won 62.1 percent of the votes and 232 seats in the 1977 elections, and is likely to win again nationwide, except in Jakarta and northern Sumatra. The pro-Western military regime installed by Gen. Suharto in 1966 has established close economic links with the United States, Japan and other Western European countries and follows a capitalist path.

Economic gains seen Prem ends 'successful' trip

PARIS, May 1 (AFP) - Thai Prime Minister Prem Tinsulationda's four-oation European tour, which wound up Saturday, was both a political and economic success, Thai Foreign Minister Sitthi Sawetasila said here Saturday.

Marshal Sitthi told reporters before the Thai delegation took off on a regular flight to Bangkok following Prem's official 24-hour visit to France that French Foreign Minister Claude Cheysson had expressed his "support and comprehensioo" of Thailaod's problems. There were no differences or outstanding

During the four-nation tour through Austria, Belgium, Britain and France, Prem scored a significant series of successes on both political and economic fields.

In Brussels, the European Economic Community Commission agreed to maintain Thai tapioca exports to the Common Market for two years. And in Loodon and Paris, Prem obtained financial guarantees for the development of an $220 million Thai oil refinery expansion project, the biggest international contract ever signed by Thailand.

The contract, won hy a Franco-British con-sortium, was finally validated when Prem obtained financial guarantees from the two government credit assurance organizations, COFACE in France and the Export Credit Guarantee Department (ECGB) in Britain. Reiterating the gist of a statement on Cambodia Friday by Prem, Sitthi told newsmen here that Bangkok hoped for a political and not a military solution to the Cambodian crisis. But he added that "a future Cambodia" should be "neutral and independent, and not a threat to its neighbors".

This was why Thailand, "like France", maiotained its call "for a retreat of the Vietoamese forces which invaded Cambodia three years ago," he said. He added that Cambodia had also called for "self-determination" for the Cambodian people through "free elections supervised by United Nations observers."

Both the Thai prime minister and foreign minister stressed during their visit here that Thailand and its four Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) partners -Malaysia, Singapore, Indonesia and the Philippines - believed that France "could play a vital role" in the region.

They indicated that contrary to prevailing opinion the five ASEAN members "were prepared for a dialogue with Vietnam on the condition that a meeting could lead to peace and not to a mere propaganda victory for Hanoi". .

The French authorities also raised the issue of French naoquals currently jailed in Thailand on drug-related charges. France hopes for an agreement allowing detainees to end their prison terms in France and has also set great store on next Wednesday's 200th Thai dynasty anniversary royal pardon.

Peking to compensate crash victims

PEKING, May 1 (AP) - Communist China will pay compensation to the families of the 112 persons killed when a Chinese jetliner crashed in an isolated, mountainous region on Monday, a Canton newspaper says.

The Yangcheng Evening News said more than 90 relatives of Hong Kong Chinese on the plane had arrived or were on their way to Canton, and were being met and accommodated by China's zirline, CAAC.

But it said CAAC was turning down their requests to go to the crush scene about 45 kms southeast of the scenic city of Guilin. The British-built Trident was flying from Canton to Goilin when it crashed. It said medical personnel had been assigned to care for elderly and infirm relatives of 15 victims who were among a tour group organized among local tin miners in Taishan, near Canton. CAAC officials had gone to the area to extend condolences and listen to the relatives' requests and opinions, it said.

Italians vow to fight Mafia

PALERMO, Sicily, May 1 (R) — Italian politicians pledged to defeat organized crime after the assassination Friday of Sicly's Communist Party chief, an active campaigner against the Mafia.

Communist regional secretary Pio la Torre and his driver died in a hail of bullets fired by a number of attackers outside the party's Palermo headquarters. Police said no organization had claimed responsibility. But local officials immediately speculated that La Torre was the victim of a Matia slaying.

The Communist Party bas been campa-igning in Sicily against Mafia bosses who have turned Palermo into the crossroads of the international beroin trade.

Interior Minister Virginio Rognoni flew in from a meeting of police chiefs in Naples after the oews of the shooting, vowing an all-out fight against Mafia gangs in Naples and Sicily. Later Communist Party chief Enrico Berlinguer also arrived.

Canada to probe diplomat's death

PERTH, Australia, May I (AFP) - Two Canadian police officials are to visit this western Australian city next month in an effort to gain new material for an investigation ioto the death of a diplomat suspected of being a Soviet agent, it was learned here Saturday.

The two police officers, from the Quebec provincial force, will be investigating the case of John Watkins, a former Canadian ambassador to the Soviet Union. Watkins died in Montreal in 1964, at the age of 62, during an enquiry into his activities by the counterintel-ligence service of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

He was reported to have died of a heart attack, but there was no autopsy or coronor's inquest at the time. An inquest opened in Quebec last year. Portugal envisages veto 106 arrested on Spain entry to NATO in Calcutta

BRUSSELS, May 1 (R) - Portuguese President Antonio Ramalho Eanes said Friday Portugal could envisage using its power of veto over Spain's scheduled entry into NATO. "We do not believe we will use the veto but we could," he told a press conference here on the last day of a four-day visit to Belgium.

The president, who visited NATO headquarters here earlier, added he believed that Spanish entry, expected to be completed by this June, would go through without recourse to this extreme measure. "But in an extreme case, we would have to use this right (of veto)." He said his government could not accept any situation which threatened the security and rights of the Portuguese people.

Portugal, a founder member of NATO, has said Madrid should not be given control over the whole Iberian peninsula when it joins the alliance's military structure. Eleven Soviet bloc representatives have now been told to leave since 1974. Two Soviet diplomats were expelled for similar reasons last February. Because of the Polish crisis, Portugal cut the Soviet, Polish and East German embassies' staffs by 30 percent earlier this year and negotiated what the government called the voluntary withdrawal of 12 Soviet bloc diplomats.

The official Uganda radio, monitored in Nairohi, said Friday that because of the worsening security situation in the capital all jobless males should leave the city or risk imprisonment. It said the order would stay in force until further notice and told those affected to return to their villages quickly.

Western diplomatic sources contacted in Kampala said the move was without precedent and could affect tens of thousands of men living on the fringes of city life with no steady work. In the last 10 days guerrillas trying to overthrow President Milton Obote's government have killed at least five and possibly seven policemen in ambushes, the sources said.

Last Wednesday guerrillas shot dead a member of Obote's ruling party in the hospital bed where he was recovering from a previous guerrilla assassination attempt, the sources said. NAIROBI, May 1 (AFP) - A nine-ship U.S. Navy task group carrying 8,000 officers and men is due in Kenya's Indian Ocean port of Mombasa this weekend for a one-week visit, it was learned here Saturday.

The task group, led by the aircraft carrier U.S.S. John F. The first warships are due in port Saturday, and the group will sail on May 7 for a cruise in the Indian Ocean before heading home to North Virginia.

CALCUTTA, May 1 (R) — Police said Saturday they had arrested 106 persons in connection with Friday's killing of 17 members of a controversial religious sect here.

Angry crowds on the southern outskirts of Calcutta attacked members of the Ananda Marga (path of bliss) religious sect with spears, knives and iron bars following rumors that they had kidnapped children.

Soviet gold sales touch 280 tons

LONDON, May 1 (AFP) — The Soviet Union sold 280 tons of gold on Western markets last year, compared with only 80 tons in 1980, according to the Samuel Montagu Bank, which specialises in trading in precious metals.

The bank said the sales were probably caused by the Soviet Union's need to import large quantities of grain, and because it had to provide financial help to Poland.

But the sales, most of which occurred in the last quarter of the year, were below the levels of 1977 and 1978. The bank also said that they did not depress the market so much as is generally believed. They said that they scarcely met increased demand from the jewellery trade, particularly in the Middle East and Far East, and demand from private investors.

Both those indicators — especially the new benefit claims — might seem to signal at the narion's johless rate will soon be rising above the March level of 9 percent that already was equal to the highest rate since World War II.

Economists contacted hy Reuters also said the recent breakdown in efforts to reach a budget-cutting agreement between the White House and Congress could further delay the recovery.

The indicators showed that the current economic weakness was still relatively widespread. Six of the 10 components fell in March, led by a sharp decline in the average work week to 39 hours from 39½ in Febru-

The proposal is aimed at creating a new order among the Pacific basin countries, including the United States, Canada. Australia, New Zealand and the five member countries of the Association of Southeast Asia Nations (ASEAN).

Under Suzuki's scheme, these nations are to cooperate in joint energy development projects as well as in extending economic and technological aid to developing countries, the sources said.

After the Versailles summit, prime Minister Suzuki will announce the proposal in Honolulu where he will stop on his way home from a Truio France, the United States and Latin America, the sources added.

The United States, Canada, Australia and New Zealand have implicitly supported Suzuki's idea, the sources indicated. Suzuki believes that the Pacific basin area bas a higher potential for growth than any other part of the world, they said. They added that the creation of the community could also help bridge the economic gap between rich and poor countries.

Industrialized nations of the region, including Japan and the Uoited States, could cooperate in regional development by transferring their high technologies and massive funds, tbey added.

Egyptians urged to emulate Japan

CAIRO, May 1 (R) — President Hosni Mubarak Saturday urged Egyptian workers to copy Japan and turn their country into a modern industrialized state.

In a May Day speech to the Egyptian Trade Union Federation, President Mubarak called for major expansion of production "so that one day all products we buy will be labelled made in Egypt."

The address came six days after Israel withdrew from its last positions in Sinai to restore full Egyptian sovereignty over the land it lost in the 1967 war. "The liberation of our land has given us a new force and we must harness this force for reconstruction and liberation," the president said.

Urging the Egyptians to copy other newly industrialized countries, President Muharak said: "A good example is Japan which started its industrial drive at the very same time as Fovor."

The president stressed that the "opeo door" policy for foreign investment in production would remain fundamental to Egypt's economic drive. "We welcome Arab and foreign capital," he said. At the same time steps should be taken to avoid "exploitation" and the respective ministries would make lists of priority investment needs, Mubarak said.

EEC to discuss Vietnam's needs

BANGKOK, May 1 (AFP) — The European Economic Community (EEC) has agreed to discuss long-term cooperation with Vietnam in several fields, Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach said in an interview published Saturday.

Co Thach, just back from a seven-nation tour that included France, Sweden, Belgium and West Germany, told the Vietnam News Agency that he had been struck by what he called mounting sympathy in the West for Vietnam and its allied governments in Loas and Cambodia.

The interview followed a statement in the newsletter of the Bangkok-based EEC regional delegation, that the EEC would not in fact envisage resuming its program of development aid to Vietnam.

Stock rally ends abruptly

NEW YORK, May 1 (AP) — The stock market's longest rally in 10 years halted this past week as budget talks hroke down in Washington, renewing concern over the impact of huge deficits on a recovery from recession.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose in each of the previous six weeks, a string unequaled since the fall of 1972.

To some analysts, the spring rebound suggested the economy's future is far brighter than it currently appears, with the past week's retreat viewed as a temporary interuption.

The blue-chip average, which had fallen from an eight-year high of 1,024.05 on April 27, 1981, to a two-year low of 795.47 last March gained back 70.11 points before reversing course Tuesday.

But the market turned higher Friday, despite a Commerce Department report that a barometer of future economic trends, the index of leading indicators, fell in March for the 11th straight montb. In the past week, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 13.81 to 848.36. The New York Stock Exchange composite index fell 1.17 to 67.08, and the American Stock Exchange market value index was off 5.34 at 270.46.

Annlysts said they were encouraged that the week's decline was accompanied by reduced trading volume, indicating investors were wary rather than on a selling spreu. Big Board Volume averaged 53.41 million shares n day, down from 61.44 million the

Among the market's optimists is technical analyst Alan C. Poole at Laprinildams and Peck Inc., who said "we've seen the bottom of this market." Poole said the midweek selloff was not surprising as investors took advantage of the recent runup in prices.

Traders who needed an excuse to sell did not have to go far to find one. Earnings reports from corporations remained dismal, the Falkland Islands crisis continued unresolved, a budget impasse developed and Treasury Secretary Donald Regan said that without cutting deficits the recovery from recession would be weaker than expected.

To some analysts, investors prepared to have stepped away from the market amid uncertainty about the economy's course. "Let's face it, a lot of people have not made a lot of money in the market in a decade." said Juius Weszheimer at Baker, Watts and Co.

Canada's synthetic oil project flops

OTTAWA. May 1 (R) — Canada's giant Alsands project to produce synthetic crude oil from tar sands in Alberta collapsed when the biggest partner pulled out.

Shell Canada resources, leader of the Alsands consortium with 21 percent, announced in Toronto it was not, going ahead with the $11.2 billion project.

The consortium announced in Calgary soon afterwards that it had canceled the scheme. Shell president William Daniel said his company had carefully considered a last-minute offer Thursday of 50 percent participation by the Canadian and Alberta provincial governments but had decided against it. "To the current and forseeable economic and industry environments we cannot proceed," Daniel said.

Other partners in Alsands had already withdrawn, leaving Shell and Gulf Canada, with a total of 26 percent, the only remaining companies in the consortium, along with the state firm Petro-Canada, which had 17 percent.

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau told a news conference Friday that the state of the Alberta sands scheme and a $43 billion gas pipeline project which is also in danger of being shelved did not necessarily spell gloom for the economy.

After the Calgary announcement Energy Minister Marc Lalonde said he did not think the collapse of Alsands, which would have gone into production in the late 1980's would affect the government's target of making Canada self-sufficient in oil by 1990.

Canada would have to place more stress on oil development in the Arctic Beaufort Sea and off the Atlantic coast, as well as expanding development of conventional crude oil in Alberta, the main producing province, he told reporters, "We are confident the goal of oil self-sufficiency by 1990 can be achieved," Lalonde said.

The world recession and uncertainty over world oil price prospects had made private investors wary about large energy projects in the United States and Canada, he said.

Tanker demand around Gulf suffers setback

LONDON. Mny 1 (AFP) — Fears of a further outbreak of hostilities between Iran and Iruq Inter confirmed, kept tanker trading limited around the Gulf states area, this week.

There were premiums available for knading out of Kharg Island, with several reportedly fixed, but overall, rates took on a softer trend.

UAE to set up petroleum unit

ABU DHABI, May 1 (WAM) — A new company will be set up to serve the petroleum industry, according to the Khaleej Times, a leading UAE newspaper.

A draft law on the subject is currently under study by the finance and trade committee of the National Consultative Council of Abu Dhabi.

The proposed company will be jointly owned by the Abu Dhabi National Oil Company (ADNOC) and the Abu Dhabi Investment Authority.

ment Authority.

Both will have equal shares in the company whose prescribed capital is likely to be 500 million dirhams and subscribed capital 200 million dirhams.

The new company will be directly or indirectly involved in a oumber of commercial projects relating to the production, refining and marketing of petroleum and petroleum products.

It will invest in the pipeline maoufacturing industry, oil and gas tanker fleets and various industrial ventures related to the petrochemical industry.

The company will also conduct feasibility studies both for its own projects and on a commercial basis for other organizations.

Meanwhile, diplomats said the United States opposition to a sea law convention could weaken the treaty. Bur a number of them also said they did not regard the U.S. position as final and believed Washington might eventually have second thoughts.

The treaty sets up a Jamaica-based International Seabed Authority to regulate ocean floor mining both by its own operating arm and by private consortia.

U.N. talks on flag ships fail

GENEVA, May 1 (R) — The United Nations will have to hold a second round of talks on "flag on convenience" ships before drawing up a global convention to restrict their operations, U.N. maritime experts have

Delegates to a 17-day meeting which ended Friday were unable to agree on international guidelines for ship manning, manag-ing or financing to ensure shipowners could be held liable for accidents, chairman Misbah Oreibi said.

He said delegates would meet again in November to seek a compromise which would create tighter legal and financial links between ships and their states of registry.

Third World and communist states as well as many sailors' unions argued that ships registered in Liberia, Panama and other "flag of convenience" countries can flout safety and labor laws because they are not held accountable.

Oreibi said the meeting might agree before it eoded to call a U.N. cooference in 1983 to restrict the operations of foreign-registered ships, which the U.N. says are involved in almost half of all accidents on the high seas.

COPENHAGEN, May 1 (AFP) - French President François Mitterrand said the European Economic Community (EEC) would not tie its support for Britain in the Falklands' crisis to any British concessions over internal Common Market problems.

Mitterrand, who arrived back in Paris Friday made the statement at a press conference in Copenhagen after winding up a 48-hour. largely ceremonial visit to Denmark.

He said he had "constantly followed" the Falklands dispute with Argentina during his stay here, and would "made known what I feel in due time."

But in response to questions, he said it would be a "bad method" to link the Falklands issue to internal EEC questions, such as fixing farm prices and Britain's push for a reduced hudget contribution.

His meeting with Prime Minister Anker Joergensen Friday spanned bilateral. Common Market and global issues. Mitterrand said at the press conference afterwards that France and Denmark saw eye-to-eye on basic questions, with only minor differences.

Alaska pipeline runs into snags

SALT LAKE CITY, May 1 (AP) - Sponsors of the giant Alaska-Canada natural gas pipeline have said the completion of the mammoth project will be delayed at least another two years, until 1989, because adequate financing is not available.

The sponsors adjourned here Friday afternoon after six hours of talks failed to produce financing plans for the long-delayed project. The 10 sponsors pledged themselves to continue seeking funds for the pipeline.

The pipeline, originally planned for completion in 1983 at a cost of $10 billion, has been hurt by high interest rates and delays.

The sponsors had expressed hopes of raising finance that would support a 1987 comletion date. The cost was then estimated to be at least $40 billion.

The proposed pipeline is to move Alaskan natural gas through Canada to U.S. markets.

Dollar registers sharp fall

JEDDAH, May 1 - The unexpected $1.9 billion rise in the weekly M1 U.S. noney supply figures gave a slight boost to Eurodollar deposit rates Friday night in New York. This coupled with a steady Federal Reserve Board "Fed fund" prime lending rate of around 15-151/4 percent helped to stabilize U.S. dollar interest rates for the time being despite an undercurrent of pessmism concerning long-term U.S. dollar

In the exchange market the U.S. dollar ell back sharply against most major currenies, in what was described as "near panic" selling on both Thursday and Friday but there was a slight recovery of the dollar in New York on Friday night as news of the breakdown in the United State's mediating role in the worsening Falklands crisis hit the market. The British pound shot up sharply after the U.S. announcement of its support for Britain, and sterling closed at levels of 1.8110 in New York compared with 1.7710

The Bullion markets had a mixed and nervous trading day with prices fluctuating on rumors and counter-rumors over Argenlinian and British measures to impose a blnckade against the other in the Falklands dispute. Golf prices traded at $359 levels in London on Friday, but the Hong Kong markets saw prices fall back to 345 in also panic selling. In the local markets, rival deposit rates were basically stable with little significant changes recorded over Thursday levels. The one-month JIBOR rate was quoted at 131/2-14 percent on opening and firmed only slightly by 1/8 percent in some technical adjustments of positions by local banks. In the longer tenors the six-month rate was quoted at 13%-13% percent while the one-year was quoted, but not dealt, at 131/8-135/8 percent. Lakers set to makefinal

NEW YORK, May 1 (AP) - It's not that Phoenix is playing all that badly, said Los Angeles coach Pat Riley. It's just that the Lakers are playing so well.

"I think we are playing excellent haskethall. I don't think they collapsed," Riley said Friday night after the Lakers, with their third straight triumph over the Suns, moved within a victory (they can get it Sunday) of a place in the National Baskethall Association's Western Conference final against the winner of the San Antonio-Seattle series.

Los Angeles. Riley added, "Hasn't played this well more than four or five times over a string of three games this season.

"I think triple-teaming Kareem all night had something to do with it ... they do pay too much arrention to Kareem, which is OK hy me," said Wilkes.

San Antonio, trailing hy 21 points late in the second period and 17 at the half, rallied to edge the Supersonics 99-97 and take a 2-1 lead going into Sunday's fourth game. Reserve guard Mike Bratz scored his only basket of the game with seconds left to lift the Spurs to win.

"We played worse than we've ever played all year in the first half," said George Gervin, who scored 16 of his 36 points in the third period. "The second half was a different story. My shots were starting to go in the third so I started looking for my jumpers."

The Eastern Conference semifinals were to resume Saturday with Philadelphia holding a 2-0 lead heading into Milwaukee and Washington visiting Boston tied 1-1.

Meanwhile, Scotland won its third match in the European Basketball Championship qualifying rounds at Meadowhank, Edinhurgh Friday beating Iceland 77-64, Paul Stewart scored 26 points and Bobby Archibald capped a fine match by contributing 12.

Ireland slumped to its third successive defeat but made Egypt fight much of the way before going down 64-68. In the last match of the night, Hungary scored a runaway 105-78 triumph over Austria, dominating the second

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, May f ncies) - Hens Henrik Palm of Dermi ely held onto bis Europeen welterweight is ing title Friday night in a blistering farrow match egainst Italian Picrangelo Puri

Palm, 25, was given the 2-1 decision despite a dizzying attack by the 28-year-old halian in the last two rounds. It was Palm's first defense since he gained the vacated title with a knockout last February against Goorge Warusfel of France.

Pira, a municipal gardener fighting for the first time outside Italy, held the first four rounds even with Palm, who then put this superior reach and experience to use,

The Dane, staying just out of Pira's reach, kept pumping him with a deep left-right series and uppercuts. He opened a cut over the Italian's left eye but Pira's manager, Uniteno Branchini, was able to stop the bleeding. In the 11th round, Pira took advantage of Palm's closing right eye and attacked, digging in to use his powerful left hook. Falm blocked and evaded much of the onslaught but Pira kept on to the end.

The Dane scored a split decision in his first defense. But he had to ward off an impressive array of lefts and rights from the Italian to do it. It was not until the sixth round, when his opponent began to nre, that Palm got to grips with the fight and began to land his powerful punches more consistently.

Both men had to battle against severe eye injuries from the eighth round onward and a rally by Pira in the 11th round caused the Dane further damage. But English referee Harry Gibbs let the fight continue.

The tough Italian contender pressed hard to the end. Gibbs ruled Palm the winner by 116 points to 113, while judge Armand Krief of France had him ahead 119-113. But West German judge Michael Fischer made Phil the winner 119-117.

After the bout, Palm said "It was complete will power that brought me through those last two rounds. I couldn't see anything." He called it "an unexpectedly good fight."

From the Italian's side, manager Branchini said "We're satisfied with the decision" although he had hoped for a tie. "Pira was northe winner but, with Palm's eye closed that way, the fight should have been stopped." Branch-ini said.

The ring physician, Joergen Husum, examined the Dane's eye before the final round but let Palm continue. It was Palm's 38th win, 17 by knockout, in 40 professional bonts. Pira's record is now 27 wins, 15 by knockout, and three losses.

Stevenson, included in a 12-man Cuban team announced in Havana, will be returning to the scene of his first major triumph, the 1972 Olympics. Injury may keep Francis out of World Cup

MANCHESTER, May 1 (Agencies) — England striker Trevor Francis' World Cup hopes hang in the balance, Manchester City manager, John Bond, Friday warned that Francis may not be risked in Spain if his groin injury has not cleared up within the next two

Francis miured himself again in England's match against Wales Tuesday and Bong said, "I think some people must doubt whether or not Francis could go through the whole World Cup tournament without having his injury recur." Ron Greenwood and England know that he can't go into the tournament without having the injury cleared by a specialist, which is what we are trying to do at the moment.

Bond added, "I bave talked the situation over with Trevor and we both realize England cannot afford to take a player to Spain who is any way a fitness risk. He has been very unlucky and it's my feeling that the injury will clear up and he will play a full season for us next year.

The Florence side, who already have Argentine winger Daniel Bertoni on their books, reported to have paid about 1.6 billion lire ($1.2 million) for the 28year-old River Plate defender.

Speculation about another Argentine star. Diego Maradona future was refueled here with unofficial reports that the Argentine football idol would play for Barcelona next season and would not even return home after Spain.

According to the sports daily As, representatives of the wealthy Spanish side and Maradona's two clubs, Boca Juniors and Argentinos Juniors, reached a transfer agreement in a hotel in Barcelona late Wednesday night.

But Argentinos Club President Domingo Tesone, interviewed in Buenos Aires Thursday, denied the report. Meanwhile, an official spokesman for the Spanish Club said Thursday: "Barcelona will sign no transfers or reveal any plans before the European Cup Winners Cup final on May 12."

KNOXVILLE. Tennessee May 1 (Agencics) — U.S. President Ronald Reagan Saturday applauded the release of 1,000 prisoners and the lifting of a nationwide curfew in Poland said the United States is ready to help the troubled Polish economy if Warsaw's military government ends marrial law.

Reagan said steps taken earlier this week by the Polish government "are a welcome step in the right direction but are not enough." In a statement released by the White House as the president prepared to fly here for the opening of the World's Fair, Reagan said that by Warsaw's own count, more than 2,000 citizens, including Solidarity leader Lech Walesa, are still imprisoned.

'I would like to lift our sanctions and help Poland, but not until the Polish government has ended marrial law, released the detainees and reopened a genuine dialogue with Solidarity led by Walesa, Reagan said.

The United States imposed economic sanctions against Poland last Dec. 23 in response to a government crackdown on Solidarity and the imposition of mattial law.

Reagan said the sanctions were "reversible if and when Polish authorities restore the intemationally recognized human rights of the Polish people.

"When that happens, we stand ready to provide assistance to help in Poland's econ-

During his Copenhagen trip, Mitterrand also opposed proposals for larger European Economic Community countries to play a guiding role vis-a-vis smaller members -such as Denmark - of the Common Market. He said he would also visit the other small EEC countries — Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Ireland and Greece.

French sources said Mitterrand's numerous trips abroad - he goes to Austria next month - aim at explaining his administration's policy concerning the Communist bloc, to leaders with whom he shares a common ideology and who are in countries situated close to Eastern Europe.
